Monologue PERSONALITY

	The text of the monologue	Vocabulary, Grammar Structures, Linking Words and Phrases
Step 1. Introduction 1. Start with a hook sentence that will attract the listener's attention, a quote, a proverb, etc. 2. Lead your speech steadily to the main part of your talk. 3. The introduction may consist of 3-6 sentences.
Step 2. Personality Types 2.1. Speak about two personality types (extroverts and introverts). What tells you more about a person's personality: their clothes, their body language, their voice, their tastes or something else?	Nevertheless, people are often sorted into two personality type: introverts and extroverts. In truth, many folks have a mix of both qualities: extraversion and introversion. There are such personal qualities as: extraversion and introversion, let's try to understand what they mean, you will understand who extroverts and introverts are. Extroverts, for instance, are folks who like to look outward. They are usually energetic, sociable, cheerful, ambitious, and adorable. They often act first, then think. When extroverts feel down, unmotivated, or low on energy, they seek external things to lift their spirits. For instance, they might go out, call friends, or have a party. It seems like they have endless energy. They may use big gestures and keep eye contact when they talk. Extroverts prefer colorful and attention-grabbing clothing. On the flip side, introverts like to look inward. They're most comfortable when they're alone and enjoy thinking and reflecting. They're reserved, quiet, cautious, and sometimes indecisive, but also they are very creative. So, they like to think carefully and consider things before taking action. They often analyze things before speaking. Unlike extroverts, introverts value having fewer but deeper experiences. When introverts feel bad or stressed, they turn to their inner thoughts for energy and motivation.	Nevertheless In truth for instance(2) On the flip side So like but also personality type introvert(8) extrovert(8) personal qualities extraversion(2) introversion(2) ambitious adorable cheerful sociable energetic indecisive quiet cautious creative reserved They are usually have both: something and something such as:

2.2. What personality types would some jobs (e.g. a computer programmer, a researcher, etc.) attract and why?	To gauge someone's attitude, you can look at how they present themselves. Introverts favor comfy clothing that's all about personal comfort rather than grabbing attention. They like calm colors and simple accessories. If you see someone dressed like this, then you can be pretty sure that they're an introvert. Introverts don't enjoy social activities as much and prefer jobs that allow them to work alone, like being artists, writers, engineers, or inventors. In contrast, typical extrovert jobs are in fields like politics, sales, teaching, and management. Extroverts enjoy interacting with others and are often successful in such roles. This doesn't mean they lack confidence. In fact, they usually have plenty of it.	They are..., but also...
Step 3. Charisma 3.1. What is charisma? Give an example of a charismatic personality and explain why you find him/her charismatic. 3.2. Is charisma the most important quality to possess if you want to be successful in your career? If not, what other qualities are important?	So, what's charisma? Well, many people mix it up with fame, but it's not the same. Charisma is like magic, and it's rare. It can be something you're born with, but you can also learn it. Charismatic people can inspire others and make them see them as leaders. They can draw people to them. For instance, Martin Luther King was a leader in the United States Civil Rights movement. He had charisma and used it positively to fight against inequality between black skin and white skin people. Convincing thousands to stand up against current regime was very hard. He once said that we can accept disappointment, but we should never lose hope. It is not uncommon to hear the question: does charisma help in moving up the career ladder? I believe that charisma can help a person in career advancement, only if he has a good command of his profession, or his profession requires a lot of charisma. For example, if a person have charisma and works as a programmer, but does not know a single programming language, then it is unlikely that he should count on a promotion. At the same time, a person who knows his profession perfectly well can concede a promotion to a colleague who does not have the same skills, but who has more charisma. As a result, we can deduce the following: charisma helps in the career of those who can already do something	So Well For instance once not uncommon I believe that only if For example At the same time As a result charisma(9) Charismatic have charisma He once said that we can accept disappointment, but we should never lose hope.
Step 4. CREATIVE THINKING Introduce your own extra idea(s) on the topic that hasn't / haven't been mentioned before. Justify your choice.
Step 5. Conclusion  Summarise the ideas of steps 2, 3, 4.
